Collaboration (outline)	We arranged to have two class meetings over quarter three on Zoom. For each meeting students spoke with their partners in America in Japanese for 25 minutes and then in English for 25 minutes. Students created discussion and interview-style questions they wanted to ask for homework. Overall, it was a language and culture exchange in which students were able to use both languages for equal amounts of time.
duration	Two class periods, 50 minutes each
How to evaluate students' achievement	Homework done to prepare before each meeting and then a written report afterwards.
Comment	The teachers at Dickinson College were very helpful with helping organize and manage the meetings. Students seemed to really enjoy the COIL process and were able to successfully use English with their partners on Zoom. No problems or issues this quarter with COIL.
