Collaboration (outline)	The students did cultural and language exchanges involving gathering basic information about their partners and their partners local areas, university life, etc. Each session combined both Japanese and English. In the general session portion both instructors gave comments, directions, etc. in each language. In the breakout sessions, students worked in pairs or small groups, using half the time in English and half the time in Japanese.
Duration of Collaboration	Two sessions over two weeks.
How to evaluate students' achievement	Written reports on the information they gathered and reflections.
Comment	This long-standing partnership runs smoothly thanks to the dedication and interest of the instructors and students in the USA and the shared expectations between us. I am very happy to be continuing to work with Dickinson College professors and students.
